

WALKING TOWARD BEAUTIFUL DAYS EMBRACING LIFE AND FAITH

BY CHAPLAIN JULIE FREEMAN, M.DIV

Spring weather can be highly unpredictable, sunshine one minute and rain the next, making planning difficult. As we spend more time venturing outside, the more we are reminded that the moments of joy, peace, and fulfillment we seek do not simply appear at our doorstep — they require action, intention, and the courage to move forward, even when the path is unclear.

In our daily lives, it's easy to get caught in the waiting game. We wait for the perfect moment, for answers to our prayers, or for external circumstances to change before we can embrace the beauty around us. However, just as a beautiful day doesn't come to us, neither does the deeper meaning and satisfaction we desire from life and faith. We must actively seek them.

Walking toward a beautiful day doesn't mean waiting for everything to align perfectly. It means taking one step at a time, trusting that each step will lead us closer to the light. In faith, this might look like embracing hope even in the midst of doubt, finding purpose in the journey rather than just the destination.

When we walk toward beautiful days, we are choosing to live with intention, faith, and hope, understanding that life's challenges and joys are all part of the process. The beautiful days we long for are already within reach — we just need to take that first step, trusting that with each stride, we are walking toward a brighter tomorrow. Let's walk towards those beautiful days, with faith guiding every step. ■

FROM THE DESK OF... MARY BLUBAUGH, CEO

CEO SEARCH UPDATE

The Brewster Board completed the first round of interviews on March 22. They will have more rounds of interviews and plan to have a candidate in place prior to Mary's last day, June 30. When a candidate has been selected and has accepted the position, more information will be shared. Two Resident Council officers were also present for the interviews. ■

BREWSTER BUS UPDATE

Because of generosity from residents and the community, donated funds have been successfully utilized to purchase a new transportation bus. The new bus promises to improve access to essential services and recreational opportunities for Brewster Place residents.

For several years, we have relied on an aging bus to provide transportation services. However, maintenance costs for the old bus were increasing, and reliability was beginning to deteriorate. On March 14, the order was placed for a new 22 passenger + 2 wheelchair bus.

The new bus will be equipped with overhead luggage racks, charging ports under each single and double seat, ready to talk PA system, reading lights, cup holders, and rear luggage storage. Delivery of the bus is expected within six to nine months. ■

MY SINCERE THANKS A MESSAGE FROM JAMIE FRITZ

I began my journey at Brewster Place in 2015 and have experienced immense joy serving as your Activities Coordinator for Independent Living. I have loved planning big events, trips, lunches, drives and card games. Most importantly, I have loved getting to know all of you and working with my teammates.

With my husband's recent retirement and my first grandchild on the way, I have decided to resign from my position with my last day being April 17. As you know my family is my priority and this will allow me time to be available to babysit and travel.

Now, this doesn't mean you are rid of me just yet, as I will be working PRN (as needed) in the future months. For example, in May I will host the New Dinner Theatre trip, and I will help as the Resident Services team transitions to a new activities person. I hope you will support the new person as much as you have supported me.

The friendships I have gained are so important to me and I hope to continue being a friend to you all in the future. ■

The Girls of Atomic City by Denise Kiernan
Discussion Date — Tuesday, April 22
10:30 am — Main Street Chapel

In this book the author traces the story of the unsung World War II workers in Oak Ridge, Tennessee through interviews with dozens of surviving women and other Oak Ridge residents. This is the story of the young women of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, who unwittingly played a crucial role in one of the most significant moments in U.S. history.

The Tennessee town of Oak Ridge was created from scratch in 1942. One of the Manhattan Project's secret cities, it did not appear on any maps until 1949, and yet at the height of World War II, it was using more electricity than New York City and was home to more than 75,000 people, many of them young women recruited from small towns across the South. Their jobs were shrouded in mystery, but they were buoyed by a sense of shared purpose, close friendships, and a surplus of handsome scientists and Army men.

But against this wartime backdrop, a darker story was unfolding. The penalty for talking about their work, even the most innocuous details, was job loss and eviction. One woman was recruited to spy on her coworkers. They all knew something big was happening at Oak Ridge, but few could piece together the true nature of their work until the bomb "Little Boy" was dropped over Hiroshima, Japan, and the secret was out. The shocking revelation: the residents of Oak Ridge were enriching uranium for the atomic bomb.

Though the young women originally believed they would leave Oak Ridge after the war, many met husbands there, made lifelong friends, and still call the seventy-year-old town home. The reverberations from their work there, work they did not fully understand at the time, are still being felt today.

FUTURE SELECTIONS...

Hidden Figures by Margot Lee Shetterly
Pickup Date — Tuesday, April 22
Discussion Date — Tuesday, May 22

Before John Glenn orbited the earth or Neil Armstrong walked on the moon, a group of dedicated female mathematicians known as 'human computers' used pencils, slide rules and adding machines to calculate the numbers that would launch rockets, and astronauts, into space. Among these problem-solvers were a group of exceptionally talented African American women, some of the brightest minds of their generation.

Originally relegated to teaching math in the South's segregated public schools, they were called into service during the labor shortages of World War II, when America's aeronautics industry was in dire need of anyone who had the right stuff. Suddenly, these overlooked math whizzes had a shot at jobs worthy of their skills, and they answered Uncle Sam's call, moving to Hampton, Virginia, and the fascinating, high-energy world of the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory. Even as Virginia's Jim Crow laws required them to be segregated from their white counterparts, the women of Langley's all-black 'West Computing' group helped America achieve one of the things it desired most: a decisive victory over the Soviet Union in the Cold War, and complete domination of the heavens. -Publisher's description
